You'll never outgrow the need for organization.

Team collaboration on projects is becoming more and more common. Meanwhile, deadlines are getting shorter and shorter. Maybe you're under the gun to implement ISO 9000 or QS-9000 approved document control. The answer? A document management and workflow system that helps you simplify teamwork, streamline time-to-market, improve quality and save money. The only problem is, your system requirements are bound to change from year to year. Any solution may be fine for you now. But how will the same system hold up under the strain of multi-department or even multi-site document sharing?

As your company grows, you're bound to add workstations for your shop floor, customer service department, and manufacturing sites both here and abroad. And to handle that growth, your document management system may need to link into a host-based MRP or corporate business system. So plan for it. Get the one document management and workflow solution that is flexible and robust enough for every stage of your company's lifecycle. Get AutoEDMS.

Growth is nothing without flexibility.

Right out of the box, AutoEDMS makes it easy to manage your files with easy-to-use, graphical database Forms and workflow designs. With its sophisticated fuzzy logic, it'll help you find just what you're looking for. (We've included extensive solutions for automatic file naming, revision control, workflow routing, audit trails, and more.) Then, when you're ready, customize your Forms and workflow processes with the built-in customization tools, to help AutoEDMS work the way your company works. This kind of flexible thinking lets you change the way you use AutoEDMS as your company grows and expands down the line.

Need to offer view-only access to your legacy documents? AutoEDMS lets users directly view and print over 300 common types of files across a LAN or WAN, without even opening their native applications. If you switch from your current word processor or spreadsheet to a new one, AutoEDMS can easily switch over right along with you.

And for flexibility to solve your unique business needs, we've included our ACS Customization Language (ACL). It lets you create your own solutions for document-sharing situations unique to your company. There's no compilation required; if you're comfortable with batch files, you can use ACL. So, without being a programmer, you can complement the sweeping out-of-the-box scope of AutoEDMS with the power of your own ingenuity, to create solutions for even your company's most demanding requirements.

Client/server architecture for stability with one site. Or twenty.

AutoEDMS manages documents, drawings, and images on all Microsoft Windows (XP, Vista and WIN7) platforms, and across all major network systems. And because of the client-server architecture of its database engine, it's ideal for LANs and WANs — no matter how many departments or sites they connect.

Thanks to its uniquely bulletproof client-server foundation, AutoEDMS stays up and running when other document management systems are apt to fall down. Its database never requires reindexing, so you'll never have to shut down all your users just because one workstation on the network has crashed — a situation that's all too likely with other document management solutions. This proven stability makes AutoEDMS a truly mission-critical system, and saves you valuable administration time.

And with AutoEDMS, you'll never have to switch databases or call in a programming specialist when you add new departments or sites. Your document management system transparently expands along with your LAN or WAN, glitch-free. All users see is their own ability to be more productive — and track what they're working on with effortless precision.

Enterprise-wide... no matter how wide your enterprise gets.

You never know how big you'll grow. So AutoEDMS supports portable and stand-alone systems, single-server and multi-server LANs, and WAN links. And you can use the built-in Visual Workflow Designer to customize and improve your document workflow processes. Setup "point & click" ECO control, document routing, and document approval.

AutoEDMS is so hardy, you can really push it to the wall and give your Engineering, Manufacturing, Customer Service, and Sales departments simultaneous access to the information they need. And that's important. Because the bigger your company gets, the more vital it is to let everyone see the big picture.

We know this stuff. And we'll prove it to you...FREE.

Established in 1981, ACS Software has been in the business of providing document management solutions for over 25 years. We're familiar with the real-world needs of our clients, and we make it a point to keep in touch with them — and build the solid dependability and limber flexibility they demand into a mission-critical product that's now in the hands of thousands of customers worldwide. (Many of our clients began with a handful of users and, over the years, have grown to accommodate hundreds.)

If document sharing is part of the way you work, you really do owe it to yourself to discover the one document management solution whose growth potential can match your own company's: AutoEDMS.
